

Welcome to our programme to develop the future leaders of a digitally enabled New Zealand.

What is FLINT?

FLINT is our (TUANZ) future leaders programme where we invest in the development of the next generation of leaders in digitally enabled businesses. We started the movement we call future leaders in tech, or FLINT for short, because we wanted to explore and learn about technology and new ideas which we can implement into our lives and working journeys. Our participants are in the early stages of their career working in all types of industries and are interested in learning more about this digital future.

We love technology but bring the human element and how it will influence the way we kiwis work and live.

Haere mai e te whanau, let's do this future together.

The FLINT Experience

Being a part of FLINT allows you to attend networking events and online sessions across Auckland, Hamilton, Wellington and Christchurch so you can connect and learn with and from others.

We cover a wide range of topics including: New Technologies, Diversity of Thought and Unconscious Bias in the Tech Industry, Finding Technology in Unusual Places, Strengthening Wellbeing and Resilience in Times of Change and Negotiation Skills.

We also engage on a less professional basis to build connections through quiz nights and other social events.

Every year, each location hosts our very popular half day conference.
